VOLTS

In this Polariod, we smiled
And made pretense
But deep in the verandahs
Of our heart,
Our love was orphaned
From the very start.
It cries of the daily circles
We run
Yet, we chose to believe everything
Was alright
In this electric castle,
Everything in it is misery
This castle was built with bricks
Of hatred and lies
It was built with kisses
Drenched in betrayal
A perfect castle of lies
A castle that breaks our heart
To make us live again
This electric Castle --

Electrocutes us
Yet, we don't want to let go
But let's keep the pretense
Let's keep on decorating the castle

We knew we are over
But we kept on going
We were ostriches
With wings that could not soar
But we stayed in this castle to feed
Our lovely illusions.
These gates bar us in
The titles King and Queen
Of hearts which long ago
Stopped beating with passion
But now beat only to keep us breathing
Keep us from going at each other.
Because we are tired
Of the revelations of truth we open

When we pour our hearts out

The wrenching pain

I knew truth hurts but I didn't

Know it could maim

The fear of loving again.

But stuck in this electric castle

That shocks my heart

Charging again and again

200, 360, 366

Then it beats once more

I only wish it had had dumsor

LOVE ME LIKE YOU DON'T

Your love was like a river
I couldn't hold onto it more than once
It's like a single grain of sand
It's entirely impossible to hold on to it
You see – although your love is like
A million stars dashed across the diamond skies
It is only a fool who will think of possessing it
For even in Wonderland
You can't be mine
So just love me like you don't.

Falling through a rabbit hole was easy
Falling out love with you is impossible
I watched you through my tear gland
You stride in pride cos I have become your prize
Crown jewel you own
I loathe this emotion you claim you have
The jokes on me
Every day you say to this heart

I love you

Well Mister

For my heart's sake love me like you don't

Say my name with your seductive voice

I will fall for it

You walk in heels

I think with my head

But I am head over heels with you

What kind of love

Makes me so much illogical

You are like the sun

Loving you will burn me alive

But what option do I have

Love me – love me like you don't

Fill up my frame with a deep confused emotion

Let me hope or a delicate touch

Then throw stones at this glass house you built

Let me explode all over the panes

And free myself of my excruciating pain

I want to be in pieces as long as I am free

My body, my mind, my soul....

Tired from you

And you whisper

“Love me like you don’t”

LIVING FOR LOVE.

Have you ever lived a life

Where you live for someone

Just because you want to make her happy?

Have you ever stayed in a bad relationship

Where you can't leave

Because there is a rope attached to your neck

I am living for love

Because if I should leave

It might be murder.

Love found me

And threatened to take me to her grave

He says we belong together

That I was carved from his rib

His rib is my cage

And I want out

Like Trying to swim in quick sand

The harder you try the deeper you sink

His eyes follow my shadow

And I can't live my life

COMPUTER LOVE

Should we go back to the future

Where our love was theatrical

Where we were just to entertain others

Than to show each other the love we have for ourselves?

Just one day,

The meaning of our love

Will be a code programmed in us.

We will fight

But for the wrong side

In that era of computer love

We will pretend only to make others happy.

Typing words to represent emotion

Showing off each other to the world

When we barely know each other

A century ago wooing wasn't any easier

But the facial expressions were real and not imaginative

You could hear the shaky nervous vocal cords tremble

And touches were skin deep

Our love will be a computer virus

It will only give employment to others.

We will be in different galaxy, space and time

Wishing that deep inside

You will know that we could be more than this

Hoping that you will remember me

Even when the sunset

Even our world is over.

I will always remember you

When you were wearing a crimson lipstick

I will remember your computer love

Through this screen I behold your image

The pictures you put up painting your way of life

I want to be in that

But pictures lie or so I was told

So I can't buy all you tell me

I can't walk in our fantasy

But online

You are mine

And we are perfectly fine

And here is where I will love and be loved

Over the wireless and through the 4g

POISONOUS LOVE

My tea is full of it

The bitter sweet emotion

Salty and sweet crackers which drench my soul like osmosis

I am satisfied with the taste

Brewed in this vipers fangs

I sip your poisonous love

On my dying soul.

I tried crossing the road with a broken rib

While you were on the other side like always.

Watching as I bled to death

From the poisonous tea you gave me.

What kind of love kills in the name of love.

But you never stop feeding me with it

And I relish the taste

Like mercy killing I beg for it

Am I dead or alive?

I really can't tell the difference

It's all a blur

I know I enjoy being here

While your fingers strangle my neck

It feels like caresses

I take it all in at once

The quicker I swallow the less I feel

It makes my life easier

Keeping up appearances

I look at you with heavy tears

You stood there inspiring murder in me.

Then I ask again

What kind of love hurts like this?

You never stop me from drinking the poison you gave me.

Colored blue poison

Red painted lips

I just wish you would come and kick the poison out of my sight

You watch me still

What kind of love destroys like this?

Only a poisonous love does
